

posted on 03/14/2011 at 2:00 pm

Fujitsu's Expects Delays on Shipments out of Japan.

Currently, the production and out-going shipments are under normal operation, however product is being stopped at the freight forwarder and could take several days to clear the backlog.

Fujitsu can commit to a ship date from the factory, but is unable to determine when parts will be released from seaport or airport customs. They ask us to be patient as Japan looks to the safety of their people first.