

JST Corporation Memo

From: JST Corporation

Date: March 28, 2011

To: All JST valued customers

Ref: Update on JST's status following the earthquake in Japan

“JST is up, running and open for business”!

JST continues to not anticipate any product delays. The minimal damage reported last week to JST's Utsunomiya factory has been repaired and the plant is once again running at full capacity. All nine other JST plants in Japan did not sustain any damage and are operating as normal. While conditions outside JST's control still remain, JST is monitoring these to minimize any potential negative effects.

We wish to emphasize, JST Corporation is doing everything possible to insure minimal impact to our valued customers during these difficult times. Should anyone have specific concerns, please feel free to contact your local JST Sales Engineer or the Regional Sales Manager in your area directly to discuss further.

JST also wishes to thank our valued customers for working with us as during these troubled and challenging times. JST also asks you to keep all those affected by this tragedy in your thoughts and prayers.

Sincerely,
JST Corporation
