Dear Molex Distributor,

Molex has a long history of doing business in Japan and has two major manufacturing facilities and a design center located there. We wanted to let you know our employees in Japan are safe and that none of our three facilities were damaged in the massive earthquake that struck Japan on March 11, 2011. Our operations, which are in Shizouka, Kagoshima and Yamato City, are well south of the northeastern part of the country that was hardest hit by the earthquake and tsunami.

Our manufacturing operations are operating normally today. However, we know that some of our customers and suppliers were not as fortunate. Our thoughts are with them and all of the people of Japan as they deal with one of the worst disasters in Japan's history.

The situation continues to evolve rapidly, especially in regard to transportation and infrastructure issues. Our global business continuity teams are working to understand what customers and parts may be affected and are implementing contingency plans to help ensure we continue to supply customers. Your sales representative will contact you directly as soon as we are able to confirm what, if any, impact this will have on you. We expect this initial contact to take place in the next 48 hours.

We very much appreciate your patience and support during this difficult time.

Best regards,

Graham Brock
